BASIC-ABSTRACT:

NOVELTY - A system and method for trading real estate is provided to trade the real estate safely by offering the personal information of a buyer to a seller through the internet.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION - Both the buyer and seller enter the personal information including an own telephone number and mobile phone number in the member registration procedures through each PC(100,200). A realty management center(300) registers the sale information entered by the seller on a web to a DB(350). The realty management center searches the product list for sale according to the option of the buyer through a search server(332) and transfers the search result to the buyer PC through a web server(331). When the buyer selects one of the product lists, the realty management center transfers the related sale information to the buyer PC. When the seller wants to check the personal information of the buyer, the realty management center sends the personal information of the buyer to an e-mail address of the seller.
